

Sinclair Broadcasting is a great example of how Big Media is suffocating journalism and democracy itself. Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

When large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy. Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. We need relative and substantive news. Not media spin.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
